SOCIETY

Chris James - Chief Executive

Chris James is the Chief Executive of the Haemophilia Society.

Chris joined the Haemophilia Society in July 2007. He has spent over twenty years working for voluntary sector organisations including Diabetes UK, Samaritans and the Rett Syndrome Association UK. Although he has worked in a number of different fields he has a particular interest in long-term medical conditions and the provision of support services.

He is responsible for the strategic and operational management of the Society and represents the Society on various national bodies including the Haemophilia Alliance.
