

Inhibitor Group Discussion Forum

On these pages you will find many different ways of speaking to people affected by inhibitors, acquired haemophilia and other bleeding disorders.

The Inhibitor Group forum is just for those affected by inhibitors and acquired haemophilia. If you would like to find people locally to talk to and meet then our map has tools to help you make contact.

For a more general discussion of the issues facing people affected by bleeding disorders our facebook group often hosts vibrant discussions.

The young bloods website lets our younger members get in touch with each other too.

Inhibitor Group Discussion Forum

International website for people affected by inhibitors launched

Other online places to meet

- Haemophilia Society \(Facebook\)

This facebook group is for anyone affected by bleeding disorder.

- TN2 Message Board

This is the message board on the young bloods website for older children and young people.

- Harry and Friends Message Board

A message board on the young bloods website for younger children.